

Jodie works as the City's Economic Development Director for Manchester, NH. In this position, she is responsible for advancing the City's position as a regional employment and entertainment center, advocating for a more robust business climate while focusing on business retention and expansion, and creating a solid brand that fosters civic pride, builds consistency, and reflects community values.

Jodie holds multiple certifications, including a Certificate in Creative Placemaking from the Institute of Art and Design at New England College and a Certificate in Leadership and Management from the University of New Hampshire Cooperative Extension. She is an active member of the American Institute of Certified Planners. Jodie is seeking an MBA in Public Administration at Southern New Hampshire University. She holds a BS in Environmental Planning with a Minor in Geographic Information Systems from Plymouth State University.

In addition to her daily work, Jodie has been an active member of the New Hampshire Planners Association executive committee; the Northern New England Chapter of APA; the PlanNH Board of Directors; the Manchester Young Leaders Council; Manchester Connects, and other local organizations.

Jodie is a Manchester native passionate about promoting the City as a premier place to live, work, and play and strives to exemplify why Manchester is an ideal setting to establish roots, grow a family, and enjoy life's pleasures.